

Timely Change of Air Pollution in Beijing

This visualization aims to find the degrees of air pollution in different months all over the year and on different days in a month. These two picture reflect the timely change of the air pollution in Beijing. The graph above displays the pollution concentration during a month in a given year. The graph below displays the pollution concentration during a day in a given month. The color and the darkness of the square reflect the degree of the air pollution.